

Abstract

The invention provides a process for reducing the color of HIPed components made from stabilized zirconia.